National unit hails Camco tax expert

Colette Taylor of Barrington, a tax professional since 1989, was named Chapter Person of the Year by the National Association of Tax Professionals at the group's national conference in Austin, Texas.

Taylor, past president and current member of the board of directors of the New Jersey chapter of NATP, was honored for her work in community improvement activities as a tax professional.

She is also president of the South Jersey Women in Business, a networking group, and is an enrolled agent, meaning she is licensed to appear before the Internal Revenue Service in all 50 states.
